

midlas

building resilience

Family Law: Divorce

Getting a divorce is not always straightforward. For example, you may be still living with your former partner, or you may not know where your former partner is.

These sorts of issues can complicate the divorce process and will need to be addressed when applying for a Divorce Order from the Family Court.

Here at Midlas, we can provide you with legal advice about the divorce process and can help you draft any documents required by the Family Court.

